Honorable W. F. Raborn
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Mr. Raborn:

In your letter of 13 August 1965, you requested a Defense Intelligence Agency presentation to students of the Central Intelligence Agency Midcareer Executive Development Course. Scope of instruction is to include the nature of the military threat posed by the Soviet Union and its allies and the capabilities of the armed forces of the United States to deal with this threat.

Arrangements have been made with [Redacted] of your agency, for the initial presentation on 14 October 1965. Similar arrangements will be made for future midcareer courses.

Lieutenant General Joseph F. Carroll, USAF
Director, Defense Intelligence Agency
Department of Defense
Washington, D. C. 20301

Dear General Carroll:

As part of the continuing effort to increase the effectiveness of its training programs, the Central Intelligence Agency plans to make several changes in the curriculum of the Midcareer Executive Development Course conducted by the Office of Training. Heretofore there have been no presentations dealing specifically with either the nature of the military threat posed by the Soviet Union and its allies or the capabilities of the armed forces of the United States to deal with this threat. Such coverage is desired for future Midcareer Courses.

STAT

The Training Officer in charge of the Course, [redacted] has discussed this matter informally with [redacted] who, as you know, has given highly effective lectures on the DIA to four previous Midcareer Courses. It is [redacted] opinion that although discussions of U.S. military capabilities properly fall within the purview of the Joint Staff, an instructional unit suitable to the purpose could be arranged expeditiously under the aegis of the Defense Intelligence Agency.

STAT

In view of the above, I request that the Defense Intelligence Agency undertake to develop and present the desired instruction. [redacted] is prepared to discuss specific content, dates, location, and so forth with whomever you may designate.
